Zero Waste Western Isles check the quality of material in all bins (paper & card, glass, plastics & cans and non-recyclable). Bin audits are carried out to ensure that contamination in the bins is being kept to a minimum. The bin auditing process also includes inspection of non-recycling bins for recyclable materials. This will help to decrease the amount of recyclable materials which currently goes to landfill. The more waste which is diverted from landfill, the less landfill tax the Council has to pay, enabling the Council to maintain the services it currently provides.

If you are not recycling correctly, your bin may be issued with a yellow tag to provide you with the information on how to maximise your household recycling.

Should your bin be presented with contamination on three consecutive occasions, your bin will be labelled with a red tag. This will state that your bin will not be emptied until the contamination is removed.

Thank you for your continued support through recycling.
